Local Bus Co. Could Be Stripped Of License

By Frank Messina

Its license in jeopardy, a local commuter bus company has been summoned to appear before the state Oct. 12 to answer charges that a bus sidelined for safety violations earlier this month was involved in an injury accident five days later, allegedly without being repaired.

When a Department of Public Utilities inspection detected brake problems Sept. 15, Grayline Co. bus #7601 was ordered off the road until repairs were made, said DPU spokeswoman Mary Duffy.

On Sept. 20, the same bus rear-ended a pickup truck on Route 93 in Woburn, sending two men to the hospital complaining of neck and chest pains. According to state police, the bus driver said her brakes failed.

At a DPU hearing in Boston, owners of the Merrimac Transportation Co., who also operate the Boston-based Grayline Co., will be asked to show cause "why the department should not suspend or revoke your certificate to operate," stated a DPU hearing notice.

Merrimac is charged with violating state code by operating a bus that failed DPU inspection and not reporting the accident to the agency.

Merrimac co-owner Steve Caplan rejected the DPU charges. "Their allegations are totally groundless," he said. "We categorically deny that they told us not to use the bus and that there were any brake problems."

Caplan declined to comment further, saying "we are confident the position of the DPU is incorrect and that we will be able to prove that at the hearing."

The bus was scutinized as part of an on-going inspection of Merrimac-/Grayline vehicles. In addition to hand and foot brake adjustments, DPU inspectors pinpointed several other problems on #7601, including defects in the drive shaft, speedometer, king pin, air bag and air system, said Duffy.

According to the hearing notice, the inspection slip, bearing the warning "Do not use until repaired," was signed by Merrimac maintenance supervisor David Mueller on Sept. 15.

Damage to the 1987 Chevrolet pickup hit by the bus was not severe, said Andover State Trooper Mark Caron. But the blow imparted by the bus caused the heads of the two men inside to whiplash backwards,

Trends in Kitchen and Bath Design

by Kevin Hennessey and Sean Walsh

CONTROLLING LIGHT

To bring natural light into a bathroom, use windows and doors, as well as skylights, alone ro in combination. A single window in the middle of a wall often creates a glaring contrast with the surrounding area. To increase the amount of natural light, consider placing windows on adjacent walls, or installing a skylight. Either will provide more uniform lighting over a larger area. To avoid unwanted heat and glare, it is best to locate windows and skylights so that they have a north or east exposure. It may also be necessay to consider ways to control unwanted heat loss or gain. For example, a remodeling may include an extension of a roof overhang to provide shade.

Dreams can come true with beautiful kitchen and baths by VARIATIONS IN WOOD, INC. We endeavor to created a room that is spacious, bright and cheery as well as eye appealing, convenient and efficient. When you are ready to remodel, come in and discuss your requirements. A world of creative kitchens and baths await you. You will find us conveniently located at 2370 Turnpike St., Route 114. To reach us call 685-4056.

No matter how beautifully it is decorated, a bathroom with inadequate lighting will be an unpleasant place in which to be.

"It Always Costs a Little More to Demonstrate a Certain Style."

People often tell us that the very fine clothing in our store costs a lot of money.

It's true. But then, so does a Mercedes. Or a Rolex. The point is, that in our opinion, there is no substitute for quality. And for a very select few who demand the very best in fine clothing, there is no substitute for Enzo in Andover.

Right now, our shop is displaying the newest in men's clothing for Fall. Among our selections, you will find suits and sportscoats in 100% wool, camel hair and cashmere. You'll discover new subtlety in colors, texture, patterns and style;

New colors in shirts, too, that combine exquisitely with your new suit. Plus beautiful neckwear that is a work of art.

There is a price to pay for this superb quality. But in return, you will receive from Enzo the very best value in fine clothing you can find anywhere. That is our promise.

So hurry to Enzo, and make your choice from our new Fall collection.

While we don't match other's price, they don't match our style.

Crafts Co-op

Ellen Brand, managing director of Village Artworks, and Carol French, one of its co-owners, are getting settled in after the store's opening in June. French said the cooperative is patterned after homespun gatherings of artists in Newburyport. It is located on the second floor of Annie's Book Stop on the corner of Florence and Park streets. Ten businesses are currently involved; French says there's room for one more. They offer craft items ranging from pottery to silk screening to stained glass to calligraphy.

Historical Programs Planned

By Virginia Lopez Begg

The crisp days of autumn are upon us as the Andover Historical Society shifts into high gear with programs and activities geared for the entire community.

The society's annual Family Festival on Sunday, Oct. 2, and a lunchtime slide talk about Andover's historic barns on Wednesday, Oct. 5, are open to the public. There is a small admission fee.

The Family Festival, held on the lawn of the Amos Blanchard House, 97 South Main St., the society's headquarters, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. features family activities and refreshments as well as square dancing. Stan Kandrut of North Andover will lead the Turkey Town Trotters in a demonstration of favorite squares and rounds and invite audience participation. The house and barn will be open and parents and children can explore the world of Amos Blanchard by stepping back in time to Andover in the 1820s.

Barbara Thibeault, curator of education, will present a slide-talk about the barns of old Andover on Oct. 5 from noon to 1 p.m. Part of the lunch-lecture series, participants bring a brown-bag lunch while coffee and dessert are provided.

Barns played an important role in the long history of Andover. Until recent years, farming was the major occupation pursued by the town's residents. Many old barns still stand, mute testimony to this significant era in the community's past. Today these barns are used as homes, small businesses, storage facilities and sometimes even as barns. Some are in pristine condition while others seem to fear the next strong wind. Thibeault's slides will illustrate the wide range of Andover's barns.

While no very early barns remain in Andover, a number of early 19th-century barns still stand, including the barn at the Amos Blanchard House which dates to 1818. This barn is an example of an English-style barn with its door in the longer side wall. New England-style barns, which became popular a little later in the 19th century, have their doors in the gable ends of the structures. Many barns of these and other architectural styles, remain in Andover and the lunch-lecture offers an opportunity for local residents to learn something about them.

At Belmont Hill

New students from Andover entering Belmont Hill school this year are John Melillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ryamond A. Melillo. Returning to the Belmont school from Andover are Jason M. Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Tucker and Matthew S. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter N. Adams.

11 Seniors Commended On Test

Eleven Andover High School students were commended by the National Merit Scholarship Corp. for their performance on the program-sponsored test.

Mark Angelos, Frances Bonier, Jennifer Borden, Kerri Flaherty, Lance Gomes, Joyce Harkless, Eric Jones, Tracy Lee, Jonathon Penney, Ben Reilly and Minakshi Sheel placed in the top 50,000 of more than 1 million participants in the 34th annual National Merit program. The seniors will receive a letter of commendation in recognition of "outstanding academic promise."

"Being named a commended student in the extremely competitive Merit program is a credit to these young men and women and the schools," said an NMSC official. "We hope the recognition these students have earned will increase their motivation to use their abilities to the fullest."

The AHS students participated in the competition by taking the PSAT/NMSQT test in October, 1987, as high school juniors. Although their qualifying test scores are very high, the 35,000 commended students throughout the country scored slightly below the level required for semifinalist standing in their respective states.

Montessori School Makes Staff Changes

Opening day went smoothly for the Andover School of Montessori, even though the school admitted its largest enrollment ever, according to Tina LaFranchi, executive director.

LaFranchi said that since 1985, ASM has increased its licensed capacity from 54 students to 75. She said the new capacity is part of "an ongoing effort to serve the community's demands for quality education and care."

The parent-owned and -operated preschool and kindergarten serves children from Andover, North Andover and surrounding communities. LaFranchi said its professional staff and the continued involvement of parents over the last 13 years have been crucial to the school's development and increasing popularity.

She announced new additions to the staff at parent orientation. Rosemarie Covello of North Andover and Yvonne Davison of Andover will be filling the new assistant positions. Judith O'Neil, who has been with the school for two years and recently completed her Montessori training, will be head teacher in the fourth classroom.

Longtime teacher Peggy Gurman resigned over the summer when a change in her husband's job led the family out of state. Filling her position is Darcy Sweeney of Georgetown, a Montessori-trained teacher with three and a half year's preschool experience. Sweeney says she's excited to return to the classroom after taking time off to raise a family.

Besides LaFranchi, returning staff members are Sue Flynn, Cyndy Genier, Linda Edmands, Miriam Walsh and Robin Johansen.

Parent board members have planned several social events for parents and their children for the new year, according to LaFranchi. The first is scheduled for Oct. 15; a "breakfast with champions" will be a morning of food, fun and games at the Red Barn on Johnson Street in North Andover. The first major fund-raiser will be the annual "Holiday Marketplace," a repeat performance of last year's craft fair. This year it will take place on Nov. 19 at the North Andover Middle School.

Also in the works are plans for parent workshops, speakers, community service projects and the development of a scholarship program.

The board is still seeking interested members from the community to serve as community-at-large directors.

While limited spaces are available for the current school year, ASM is accepting applications on a first-come, first-served basis for the 1989-'90 school year, when the school will be celebrating its 15th anniversary in the Andover/North Andover area. ASM accepts children between the ages of 2 years, 9 months and 6 years.

Since 1985, ASM has increased its licensed capacity from 54 students to 75. The new capacity is part of an effort to serve the community's demands for quality education and care.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

It really is amazing, but a baby begins to see as soon as he/she is born. So, right away you as a parent can help your baby enjoy looking at the world around him/her. For instance, bring interesting objects close enough for the baby to see clearly. Handle your baby in ways that help him/her to be alert and interested in you and the objects that are nearby. Carry your baby to objects that he or she can't see well without your help, like interesting wallpaper or flowers in the garden. Very important —show your pleasure when your baby looks at objects carefully, and talk to him/her about the things he/she looks at.

There is a wonderful selection of baby furniture at TINY TOTLAND. We have everything from pacifiers to strollers. Over 80 cribs on display. Wall decor and lamps. Babies toys for all ages... everything from "heaven to seven". Ask about our free lay-a-way plan. Delivery service. IF YOU'RE A BUSINESS IN SEARCH OF A BANK...

"It's the personal contact we receive from Arlington Trust that makes the difference."

Guenter and Illa Schank, owners of Teak Imports, Inc., Middleton, MA, explain the craftsmanship illustrated in a hand carved Burmese teakwood elephant to John R. O'Brien, first vice president, Arlington Trust Company.

Guenter and Illa Schank, owners of Teak Imports, Inc., Route 114, Middleton, MA believe that the secret to success is service whether you sell furniture or banking services. That's why they like doing business with Arlington Trust Company.

"It's the personal contact we receive from Arlington Trust that makes the difference," Guenter explained. "For instance, John O'Brien, our Arlington Trust Company loan officer, has simplified a complicated procedure by enabling us to transfer money over the telephone from our credit line into our account; from there, the money is automatically transferred to our broker's account in Denmark, who distributes it to over 300 factories in Europe. With the difference in monetary exchange values, this is very convenient and uncomplicated for us. That's why we feel Arlington Trust Company is a personal bank with personal service."

Since opening the store in 1971, Guenter and Illa have developed Teak Imports into a veritible showplace of the finest examples of Danish design and workmanship. "Whatever you see in our store," Illa explained, "Guenter and I personally hand picked from factories throughout Scandinavia, Germany, and Singapore. People appreciate this and come from all over the country to shop with us."

Arlington Trust Company has been serving the needs of businesses for nearly 100 years. If you're a business in search of a bank, come to Arlington Trust.

Adventure At The Glass Bin

By Virginia Cole

I wish you had been there. It was a beautiful bright, warm, fall day and the sun was glinting off the clear glass in the bin when I arrived at noon. Success, as well as good weather, is a great lifter of spirits. To find the clear glass bin full at noon is real success.

We had our regular stream of glass recyclers for the next two and a half hours. They came with their boxes and bags and barrels; with their thanks to us for being there; their apologies for drinking so much; their explanations that they brought all their neighbors' glass. We always tell them we love drinking, from cranberry juice to harder stuff, as long as it comes in a bottle. They came from Medford and Reading; new residents to Andover who were so pleased to find this service and people who said they brought their mother's glass from New Hampshire.

I saw old friends and renewed acquaintances, but on the way home, I began to wonder where you were. There are so many old friends and new ones that I would like to make who don't come to this pleasant event every third Saturday in the Town Office parking lot. The sun did not glint off the top of the green glass bin. When Franie Reilly was collecting your bottles at curbside, he told us this was a wine drinking town. He had lots of green glass. You wine drinkers are now keeping it a secret, stowing your green glass bottles in a plastic bag and sending them to the incinerator where at the least the town is paying $63 per ton to dispose of them; where the machinery must be heated a great deal hotter to melt them and the crushers work harder and wear out faster to crush them and who knows what emissions are going out of the stack?

If you had come on Saturday, you could have talked to Dave White Sr and Dave White Jr. about glass and disposal and prospects for the future. Do you know the Whites? In the sunlight with their cheery smiles many spirits might lift. Had you thought of sex appeal at the glass bin? Of course, they are not always there; so, you better come often just in case.

I've hoped you'd come to save money, improve the environment, make a statement against our throw-away society, see friends, find out the latest recycling news, enjoy the park. I guess sex appeal is my last lure.

Even without you we collected a lot of glass, clear, green and brown. Dave White says maybe plastics soon. But, I did miss you. How about Oct. 15.

Cemetery Walk Sunday

The Andover Committee of the Appalachian Mountain Club extends an invitation to the public to participate in its fall foliage walk through Mt. Auburn cemetery in Cambridge on Sunday, Oct. 2.

Founded in 1831, Mt. Auburn cemetery was the first garden cemetery in the English-speaking world. It was originally established under the auspices of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society which integrated landscaping into the design of the cemetery making Mt. Auburn a truly unique arboretum. The collection of trees comprises 75 genera, 341 species and 3,000 specimens.

More than 200 species of birds have been sighted and the Massachusetts Audubon Society considers it one of the best birding areas in eastern Massachusetts.

The Washington tower on the "mount" within the cemetery offers unparalled vistas in all dirrections for those willing to climb 100 stairs.

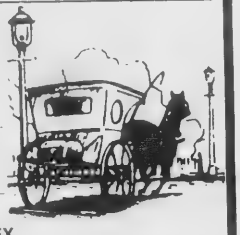

Meet at the north entrance off Mt. Auburn Street at 1:30 p.m. Warren Lewis of Andover and Doris Grandfield of Reading are the walk's leaders.

Lawrence General Hospital is the doctors' choice.

Doctors agree: Lawrence General Hospital is one of the top 11 suburban hospitals in the Greater Boston area. We are honored to be cited in Boston Magazine's September, 1988, Special Health Care Survey issue, in which 14,000 area physicians ranked health care providers.

Lawrence General was the only hospital in the Merrimack Valley to receive this honor. And our Maternity Unit and Emergency Department were singled out for special praise.

Congratulations to our staff on this recognition and all their fine work.

Raytheon Begins UF Drive

Raytheon Company has begun its annual United Way fund-raising campaign with a series of company-wide special events. This year's drive seeks to meet or exceed the $6.5 million raised by employees last year.

More than 40 Raytheon facilities nationwide are launching individual in-plant drives during September and early October. These drives involve more than 60,000 employees.

Special events are the most visible aspect of the various drives. Their purpose is to create excitement for the campaign and draw attention to the United Way's good works.

For example: at the Goleta, Calif., plant, seven senior managers compete for bragging rights in a "rowing" contest on "Raytheon Lake," a small, man-made lake on company property. Each manager is issued an inflatable raft, minus oars, and a supply of water balloon "ammunition." The object is to be the first to retrieve a rubber duck in the middle of the lake and return safely to shore.

In Andover, plant general manager and company vice president William H. Swanson leads a parade, complete with marching band, along a two-mile route throughout the company's largest manufacturing complex. More than 4,500 workers line the aisles to view the parade and, picking up on an election year theme, wave banners and signs in support United Way.

"Western Day for United Way" sees employees at the Bristol, Tenn., plant dress in cowboy garb and join a lunch for a Texas-style meal and a fast-moving round of square dancing. Bits of rodeo and country fair are worked in, with clowns and hundreds of balloons.

At the submarine signal division in Portsmouth, R.I., a plant-wide design contest leads to an 18-foot-long, 18-foot-high human-powered vehicle that goes head-to-head against entries from 15 other companies in the United Way Great Race in downtown Providence. While not the first to cross the finish line, the vehicle takes top honors for being most representative of the United Way spirit and theme.

"Special events add some spice to the rather dry task of fund raising," said James R. Rudnik, overall campaign chairman for the company. "The end result is that people can feel good about being part of the United Way campaign and have some fun while doing it."

Raytheon and its employees have been actively supporting United Way for more than four decades. In addition to the money that's donated, individuals within the company volunteer time for United Way agencies and planning committees within their communities.

Elder Workshop Tuesday

The Lowell Chapter of Living is for the Elderly will sponsor a workshop at the Fairhaven Nursing Home on Tuesday, Oct. 4, from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. for activity directors, physical therapists, dance/movement and recreational therapists and health care professionals or individuals interested in working with older adults and other special populations.

Described by the Washington Post as the "Democrats of Dance," Liz Lerkan's work promotes the idea that creative experience can be shared by everyone and sharing or exchange is what strengthens and perpetuates the art form as well as the individual. She brings her philosophy of dance to bear in her role as artistic director of two dance companies, Lerman Exchange and Daners of the Third Age, a company whose members range in age from 62 to 91. Lerman, Lerman Exchange and Dancers of the Third Age will be in the Boston area for two weeks as part of a residency sponsored by the Dance Umbrella.

L.I.F.E. is a non-profit advocacy/educational organization whose members are nursing and rest home residents. Fifteen Greater Lowell nursing homes participate in the L.I.F.E. program. To register or obtain further information on the workshop, call Pat Becker, director of the Lowell Chapter of L.I.F.E.

To Host Vision House Program

Susan Darwin

Susan Darwin, news and public affairs director of WZOU, and Mike Adams, host of WZOU's morning show, will be the on-floor hosts of a dinner dance to benefit Vision House. They will join special guests Dolores Handy and Matt Lauer of WNEV-Cannel 7, and Brian O'Leary of WCVB-Channel 5.

Darwin is an award-winning journalist who teaches at the Northeast School of Broadcasting. She is co-chairwoman of the "Drug-free Boston" campaign and is involved with Transition House for battered women.

Co-host Adams has 20 years of experience in Boston media and is on the board of the National Kidney Foundation.

He and Darwin will join prominent local and state leaders, such as Rep. Susan Tucker (Andover), Rep. Joe Herman (Tewksbury), Rep. Jim Miceli (Wilmington) and Sen. Nick Costello (Amesbury), in helping Vision House raise funds to provide services to post-traumatic brain-injured citizens of the Merrimack Valley.

The goal of the fund-raiser is to continue to build funds for the purchase or lease of a centrally located facility that will provide residential, daycare and vocational services to the head-injured. Individuals or companies that own or manage a facility that could be used should contact Vision House at 10 Lancaster Place.

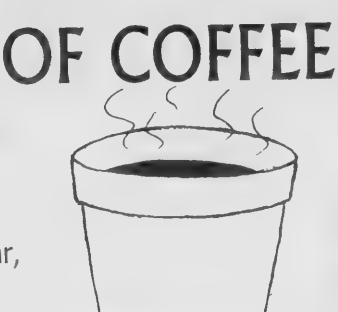

Another feature of the dinner dance is the raffle prizes, including "get away" weekends at the Andover Marriott, Sheraton Rolling Green Inn, Hotel Sonesta in Cambridge and Day's Inn in Woburn, Celtics, Bruins and Patriots tickets, tickets to the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts and a chest of silver flatware.

Tickets may be obtained at Imagine That Florist, 24 Chestnut St., or by contacting Vision House.

Chamber Votes On Key Ballot Issues

The board of directors of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce unanimously voted to oppose the November 8 general election referenda ballot questions dealing with the shutdown of nuclear power plants and rights for farm animals. The board also voted to support the referendum question which would repeal the state's "prevailing wage" law.

Saying that the shutdown of the Bay State's two nuclear power facilities (Yankee Atomic in Rowe and the Pilgrim station in Bourne) would cause severe harm to the economic well-being of the state and constitute a seizure of private property without just compensation, the chamber's board called on its members and the electorate at large to vote no on Question 4. "This referendum question is very bad energy policy," Larry Smith, the chamber's executive vice president, said. "Our state has no major fossil fuel plant on the drawing boards to replace these nuclear plants. We are already too dependent on foreign sources for energy. To close our nuclear plants would only increase that dependence. What's more, as energy demands continue to increase, we must have these nuclear plants online or we could face brown-outs or black-outs," he explained.

"Chamber members are family members, too. We would not support a system which we felt was technlogically troublesome or environmentally harmful. Nuclear power is safe, clean and efficient energy," Smith added.

"The Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce strongly opposes cruelty to animals. However, Question 3 does more to inflict cruel and abusive treatment on our farmers than it does to protect animals," Smith observed. "The so-called farm animal rights question would create yet another state agency, give it the power to set its own regulations and the membership of its governing commission would be made up of animal rights' advocates. The fact is, Massachusetts already has the toughest and best animal protection laws in the nation. We ought not to succumb to scare tactics by the proponents who are more interested in conducting a political exercise rather than preventing abuse to farm animals. This ballot question does not constitute sound public policy."

Robin Neill, vice president for government affairs for the chamber and senior vice president of Fred C. Church Insurance, Inc. of Andover, asked the board to take a position in support of Question 2, the repeal of the prevailing wage law. Neill pointed out that under the current law "Every city and town must pay Boston wage rates to contractors who do work for the municipality. The passage of Question 2 would give our communities the right to negotiate contracts which reflect wages traditionally paid in the region. With the state cutting local aid to our communities, pressure mounting to build new schools and making capital improvements, our cities and towns need some financial relief. Passing Question 2 would do that." The board of directors voted unanimaously to support Question 2.

The board unanimously ratified the decision of its government affairs committee to actively support the enactment of the Master Zoning Plan in Methuen. The plan will be voted on by Methuen residents in a special referendum election on September 27. The chamber has been actively campaigning for a yes vote on the plan prior to the board's confirmation vote.

Neill also asked the board to take a stand against H.6043, a measure already approved by the House and currently in the Senate Ways and Means Committee. It would mandate that all new commercial buildings of 50,000 square feet or more set side 2 percent of its space for day care or make annual cash payments in equal value to municipalities for day care programs. "I don't know a single business person who doesn't support the need for adequate day care," Neill said. "However, this bill does nothing to help solve the problem. It merely drives a greater wedge between the business community and those in government who look for easy solutions to problems. The problem of day care is not adequate space as this bill would have us believe. The problem is one of extremely complicated licensing procedures involving as many as 47 separate agencies and unrealistic teacher/child ratios requiring, in some cases, one supervisor for every three children. Business needs a lot of the governmental red tape eliminated in order to provide day care and this bill merely adds more." The board opposed the measure unanimously.

Ron Mills, the chamber's government affairs manager, said that the chamber will communicate the board's recommendations to its members via its mailing list of more than 3,000 business people throughout the Merrimack Valley. "We are eager to have business people use their vote in November as wisely as possible in order to foster a better economic climate for consumers, employees and businesses alike," he said.

'Where War Lives' Exhibit To Open At Addison Gallery

"Where War Lives: A Photographic Journal of Vietnam" by Dick Durrance II opens Friday, Nov. 4, at the Addison Gallery of American Art on the Phillips Academy campus, Andover. The exhibition coincides with the publication of his book also based upon his Vietnam images and titled "Where War Lives" published by Farrar, Straus, Giroux. The exhibition features a selection of its black and white photographs. The exhibition will open with a reception for the artist from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Durrance was a young photographer who "in the mid- to late 1960s...found himself like millions of Americans, drafted into the U.S. Army...and sent to Vietnam." He served in the Department of Army Special Photographic Office in 1967 and 1968 documenting military activities in Vietnam, Thailand and Korea. Durrance also kept a personal photographic journal. His Vietnam pictures won first place (news), second place (features) and third place (portrait) in the National Press Photographer's Association Military Photographer of the Year competition in 1968.

"For years after his return to the United States at the end of 1968, Durrance tried hard to forget the war. Then in 1988 he saw "Platoon." When the theater lights went up, he walked out, went home and pulled from the attic the box of photographs that he had tucked away nearly two decades before." "Where War Lives " is a selection of those extraordinary photographs.

The book and exhibition include images from various stages of U.S. soldiers' duties during the war. Durrance takes us from induction and basic training through combat and patrol, depicting the warriors as well as the civilians, children and casualties who were the victims of the Vietnam War.

According to Ron Kovic, the former Marine who wrote the introduction to the book, the photographs "reveal the welter of emotions (bravado, fear, exhaustion) that gripped every GI who found himself in Vietnam. Durrance's photographs are compelling not ony because of the inherent drama of his subject but also because of his own intimate complicity in the events they document. For Durrance, Vietnam was not a spectator spot. He was a soldier with a camera."

Born in Seattle, Wash., in 1942, Durrance was raised in Garmisch, Germany, and Aspen, Colorado. He studied at Phil-

To Open Season At Center

Carol Channing, who created the roles of Dolly Gallagher Levi in "Hello, Dolly!" and Laurelei Lee in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" on Broadway, kicks off the sixth anniversary season of the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road, Andover, Saturday, Oct. 1, at 8 p.m.

Opening night, sponsored for the sixth consecutive year by Andover Bank, will also feature an appearance by the immortal Henny Youngman, celebrating 60 years in show business.

The evening with Channing will be a nostalgic romp through Broadway with highlights of some of the most memorable musicals, accompanied live by a 15-piece orchestra.

Winner of the Tony, Golden Globe and Emmy awards, Channing made theatrical history twice by creating her famous roles on Broadway. She has been described by Gene Shalit of NBC TV as "irrepressible, irreplaceable and irresistable... the happiest high on Broadway."

Her original cast album of "Hello, Dolly!" set an all-time record for sales in the field of Broadway musicals. Political observers say that her rendition of "Hello, Lyndon" set the tone for the 1964 Democratic landslide.

Channing has made countless guest-starring appearances on television, including the role of the White Queen in the CBS-TV mini-series "Alice in Wonderland;" frequent spots with Miss Piggy on "The Muppet Show" and a regular role on "Sesame Street." She is co-starring with Max the baboon and Sandy the monkey in CBS-TV's upcoming "Circus of the Stars."

Youngman received a violin from his aunt when he was eight years old and was forced to take violin lessons. That violin remains a prop today in his rapid-fire monologue.

Although he never wanted to be in show business, he spent lots of time in vaudeville shows, compiling a tremendous mental collection of jokes which he told everywhere but at home.

Carol Channing

Rememberd for his one-liners, including "Take my wife, please," Youngman has been a veteran of the comic world for more than 60 years. When asked what he laughs at, he replied, "I'm easy, I laugh at everything."

Tickets are on sale at the Collins Center Box Office Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and at all Ticketron locations. For a full-color brochure on the events of the sixth season, write to P.O. Box 3039, Andover, Mass. 01810.

The most expensive wallet ever made is a platinum-cornered, diamond-studded crocodile created by Louis Quatorze of Paris and Mikimoto of Tokyo. It sold for $72,000.

Local Woman Attends UMC Conference

Joyce Robinson, a lay member of the Ballard Vale United Church to the South New England Conference of the United Methodist Church, attended the organizational meeting of the United Methodist General Board of Global Ministries in New York City Sept. 12-15. She had been elected to represent the conference during the northeastern jurisdictional conference meeting in Buchannon, W.Va., in July.

The 178 members of the general board come from every state, Africa, Europe and Asia and make policy for mainline Protestantism's largest mission agency. Elected for four-year terms, the board of directors administers a worldwide program involving a budget of more than $100 million annually and 1,500 mission workers in the United States and overseas.

The board has a women's division, which oversees the work of United Methodist women of which the Ballard Vale United Church's unit of 13 members makes up a small part of the 1,100,803 members nationwide.

During the meeting, Robinson was elected to serve on the national division which helps support the Cooper Community Center in Roxbury as part of their national outreach. She was also elected to serve on the United Methodist Committee on Relief which will celebrate 50 years of emergency relief work next year. While in New York UMCOR released funds for Jamaican hurricane emergency aid and set up a Bishop's Appeal for Bangladesh.

Llamas

The Andes Mountains of South America have always been known to be the home of the llama, both wild and domesticated, but never in Essex County. Today that is no longer true because several people in Essex County are breeding and raising this animal.

Mrs. Judy Kimball of Kimball Farm in Haverhill is one of the local breeders. Physically handicapped to the extent she felt she could no longer handle the more vigorous farm animals, she looked for something different. After reading several articles about llams. she decided to give it a try and seven years ago bought her first llama. Today she has six—three pregnant females and a stud.

Kimball says llamas are very docile and love people. However, dogs are their enemy. She says they act as sentinels at the farm and when they sense something is wrong, they give a warning that sounds like a turkey gobble and a shrill squeal.

Resident Gives Land Parcel On Spring Grove To AVIS

By Frank Messina

As the phone calls from developers inquiring about a choice, wooded eight acre plot on Spring Grove Road in South Andover began to mount last winter, owner Georgia Stanley came to a decision.

To preserve or pave was the question and for Stanley, a lifetime resident of Andover, the choice was simple.

"This land has been in my family for 55 years," said Stanley, "I didn't want a developer to go in there."

Preservation of Andover's natural resources is a major goal of the Andover Village Improvement Society, and when Stanley decided against selling, she called AVIS and donated the whole parcel.

Last week, the deed transfer became official. Valued at over $200,000 by the town, worth several times more with condominiums stacked on top, the land becomes priceless in the hands of AVIS.

Priceless as in no charge to walk the trails of the new Stanley Reservation and no charge to enjoy the scenery while driving along Spring Grove Road, which is how AVIS plans to capitalize on its new acquisition.

Nat Smith, president of the AVIS board of trustees, said the group runs about 15 such spots in Andover.

The organization's objectives are twofold, he explained; one, to maintain natural beauty for the enjoyment of people; two, to preserve the land in its wilderness state for the benefit of wildlife.

"We are, of course, grateful for her (Stanley's) generous donation," said Smith.

Often AVIS is offered small, one acre parcels by residents and others interested in avoiding paying taxes on the property, said Smith. Stanley's donation, although somewhat smaller than the usual AVIS wilderness reservation, was gratefully accepted because of its prime location off Spring Grove Road.

The reservation is named after Stanley's late parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stanley, who, "I think would've approved of the donation," said Stanley.

Board Denies Sidewalk Waivers

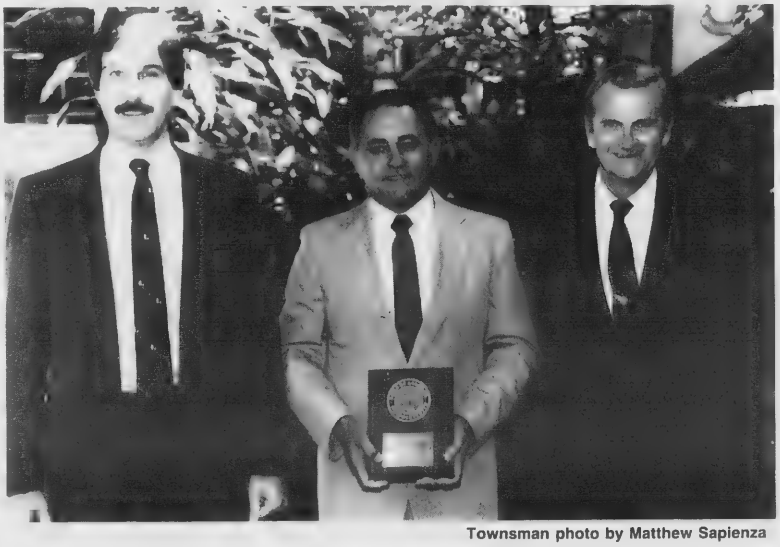

In a rare split vote, the Planning Board denied separate waiver requests from developers asking to be relieved of town requirements calling for sidewalks be laid in two Andover subdivisions.

In addition to denying the waivers by 3-2 and 4-0-1 votes, the board asked the planning staff to help develop a firm policy on subdivision sidewalks.

Chairman Russ Moran and board member Carl Byers were the minority votes on the Turner Farm Estates request. Byers abstained on the Hearthstone development vote.

The split votes, uncommon in planning board decisions, were also unusual because the residents of Turner Farms are against sidewalks. Town Physical Plan-

'The People Aren't So Different'

By Julie M. Barry

Kim O'Neill

There's a certain mystique associated with the Soviet Union, a country located on the other side of the globe that's viewed as being completely different from the United States.

This isn't necessarily true, according to Kim O'Neill, an Andover High School senior who traveled to the Soviet Union for three weeks during the summer.

"I feel we have a lot to learn from them and they have a lot to learn from us. And the only way to do it is to go over there," O'Neill said. "The people aren't so different," she added.

The enigma behind the Soviet Union is fading somewhat since Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev came to power and is allowing more Westerners to travel freely around the country. O'Neill says she and the 22 other students were able to go wherever they desired.

Westerners walking around do spark curiosity. "The Russian people were watching us," O'Neill said. The younger people were more accepting of and open to the Americans than the older ones, she said.

But, O'Neill understands this. "All of a sudden, things are opened up in the Soviet Union and the older people aren't used to that openness," she said. In addition, the older people don't speak English. However, "little kids are learning English so I think there may be a push to learn," she said.

Russian rebels are youths who are trying to be like Americans, O'Neill said. The rebels, she said, like American things and they might want the quality of American goods, but O'Neill doesn't think they want to be American.

She had the opportunity to talk with some of them. The Americans learned Russian slang words and exchanged American for Russian cigarettes. The Russian cigarettes aren't supposed to very good; however, O'Neill says almost everyone smoked.

The Russian youths she spoke to loved American music, especially Michael Jackson, Bruce Springsteen, Billy Joel and the Beatles. Break dancing is also really popular. "They're just kids, like us," she said. "There's nothing different — it's just an oppressed society."

Some of the governmental control benefits the citizens, according to O'Neill, who noted the strong educational system and the government's support of the Soviet athletes.

O'Neill covered a lot of miles during her stay. She visited Moscow, Leningrad, Baku and even Yerevan, which borders Turkey. "All of the places are completely different," she said.

Leningrad is a very cosmolitan and European-like city; Moscow is drab and colorless, except for Red Square, which O'Neill says is the most gorgeous sight she's ever seen; and Yerevan, is a more countryish style city that has churches built into hillsides.

Using Russian she had learned from a six-week intensive language course taken before her trip, O'Neill was able to speak enough Russian to get by during her travels. "Knowing a little was enough," she said. "It made it easier to understand and Russians would try to communicate if you knew the language."

Martial Arts School Brings Bit Of Chinese Culture To Andover

Alex Kiesel wants people to know about the martial arts.

Kiesel, a martial arts instructor, has a special interest in Chinese martial arts, which he says have a longer history than some of the more commonly taught martial arts such as karate. They also differ somewhat in philosophy, he said Kiesel.

Kiesel, who teaches at the newly opened Yang's Martial Arts Association on Haverhill Street, said much of the emphasis in the Chinese martial arts is on the enhancement and use of internal energy, not just physical conditioning and external power.

He said he wants to educate the community about martial arts through educational demonstrations at schools and community events as well as the courses offered at YMAA.

Yang's Andover branch celebrated its grand opening this summer. Kiesel said it's one of the few places outside of Boston that teaches a range of traditional Chinese martial arts. Since opening in June, the school had enrolled more than 30 students, most of whom come from the Andover and North Andover area.

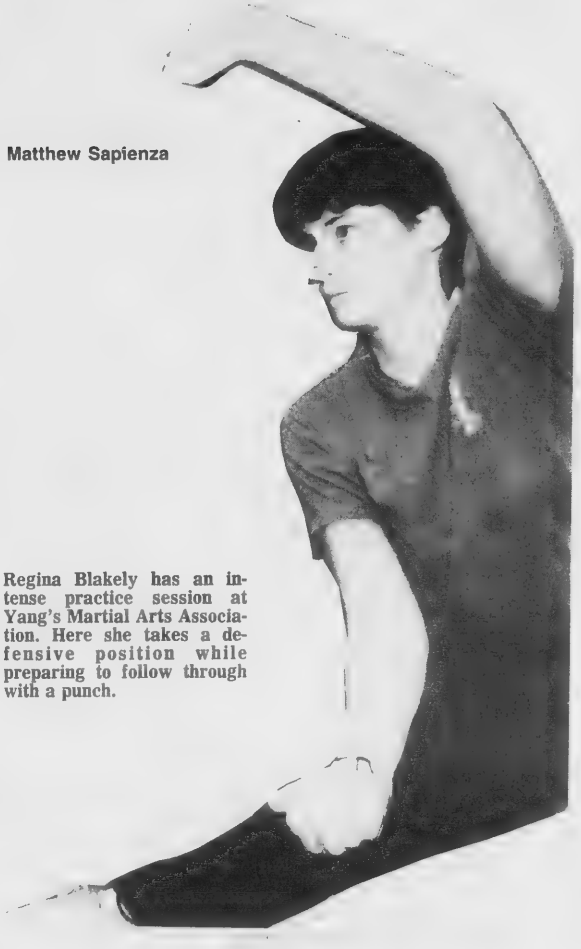

The Chinese martial arts cover a wide range of styles and techniques. The school offers courses in traditional Shaolin Kung Fu, Tai Chi Chuan and self-defense.

Shaolin Kung Fu is a martial art that developed out of meditation and exercise techniques used by the monks of the Shaolin Temple in China, Kiesel explained. The school teaches two styles of Shaolin Kung Fu: White Crane and Long Fist. White Crane emphasizes hand techniques and short range fighting. Long Fist emphasizes long-range fighting and specializes in kicking.

Kung Fu is physically demanding and therefore most suitable for young people. Children age 7 and up can benefit from Kung Fu training. It helps develop self-discipline, coordination, self-respect and concentration, which carry over to other aspects of life, including school work, Kiesel said.

Tai Chi Chuan is a style of martial arts training that is designed for both health and self-defense. Tai Chi develops the ciruclation of internal energy (Chi) using a series of set movements. Young and old, men and women can all practice Tai Chi and benefit from it. Kiesel said Tai Chi is particularly beneficial for those suffering cracking the truck's rear window, he added.

"The driver said she just couldn't stop in time," said Caron. "She said there was no pressure from the brakes." Tests performed by the trooper at the scene showed no brake defects, although Caron said he is not adequately trained or equipped to perform a thorough on-site inspection.

Despite earlier reports from the DPU indicating Merrimac had no past history of "severe" safety problems, further research by the agency disclosed last week, before the accident, yielded a different story.

A partial scan of DPU inspection records showed "several" instances of tire, brake and other mechanical problems with Merrimac buses taken out of service over the past 18 months, said Duffy.

Over the same period of time, Andover State Representative Susan Tucker said she has received a stack of complaints from area riders about poor service.

It's not unusual, say bus patrons, for the buses to be late, or for them to not arrive at all. During the summer, several people told Tucker that, not only were the buses dirty, they lacked air-conditioning and windows were sealed during the hot summer months.

Caplan has downplayed the complaints. Buses are cleaned regularly, he said, and are on-time.

The Everett-based bus firm made headlines in recent weeks with its decision to cut back midday and weekend commuter service between the Merrimack Valley and Boston, claiming financial woes stemming from declining ridership.

However, shortly before the new schedule took effect, the company was hit on two sides. First, it was discovered an alternate rail schedule printed by Merrimac was incorrect and then the Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority, which pays the bus firm $204,000 yearly to provide service, opposed the cutbacks.

Schedule changes have been put on hold as Merrimac negotiates with the MBTA over the number of Merrimack Valley-to-Boston runs. Both sides have described the talks as amiable.

Sidewalks

ner Steve Colyer told the board he received several letters from the homeowners. Only one, he said, was in favor of sidewalks.

Moran also pointed out that the subdivisions were isolated, the sidewalks wouldn't go anywhere or connect to other sidewalks. And because of the isolation factor, it's difficult for the town to snowplow subdivision sidewalks during the winter, he said.

Jack Magee, developer of Turner Farms Estates, said many homeowners have planted expensive shrubbery in the area where sidewalk cement would be poured. "As a practical matter, most of the residents would have a problem," if sidewalks were required, he said.

Under questioning from the board, Magee acknowledged residents were notified about the sidewalk.

Boardmember Michael Houghton came out strongly in support of subdivision sidewalks, citing safety as a major concern.

"To my mind, I believe there is real public good for sidewalks in subdivisions and cul-de-sacs," said Houghton. "To me it seems a poor trade—a little bit of grass for public safety."

As for maintenance, homeowners usually wind up shoveling their own walks, he added. Even if the walk is covered with snow, schoolkids will walk on top of the snow, not in the street, remarked Houghton.

Other than homeowners losing landscaping, "I haven't heard a compelling reason" to allow the waiver, said Houghton.

Boardmember Susan Stott agreed with Houghton, and asked Colyer to draft a board policy on the issue.

OPINION

An Unusual Request

The planning board this week had an unusual request, when they were asked to allow waivers for the installation of sidewalks in proposed subdivisions.

More unusual than the split decision on the mattter rendered by the planners was the request of residents themselves not to have sidewalks installed.

Pretty generally the situation is reversed, in that residents and the town itself want sidewalks built for safety reasons.

But in the case of the homeowners at Turner Farm Estates the siewalks would be placed at the expense of already-installed shrubbery and other landscaping.

It seems almost annually that either town meeting or selectmen are asked to have sidewalks built in some sections of town. The request is generally based on the fact that new growth in the area has caused problems for pedestrians, or new buildings, such as schools or industrial plants, have resulted in unsafe conditions.

If not complete new sidewalk installation is requested, then repairs to existing walks is generally sought.

The current request for waivers before the planners would, of course, result in some savings for the developers.

It was pointed out that the sidewalks would not be advantageous since they do not connect to other walks, and would be difficult to maintain in winter weather.

But, at the urging of planning board member Michael Houghton, the majority of his colleagues went along with the insistence on sidewalk construction based primarily on public safety reasons.

The decision will doubtless be a wise one, even though a few bushes and grass will be sacrificed to provide safe passage for pedestrians.

Mr. Greenhalge in his speech of acceptance at the Republican Congressional Convention in Lowell on Wednesday alluded to "academic Andover on the hilltop, and industrial Andover in her valleys."

While a Lawrence peddler was driving down Chandler's hill, the horse suddenly took fright and ran away. The driver was unable to hold him back, the result being a smash-up in the village.

On account of the storm Wednesday the village schools had one session, the children getting home about one o'clock.

There is one very good way for the Town of Andover to express its thankfulness at its escape from really serious damage and from loss of life during the hurricane, and that is by donating to the Red Cross to aid those communities hit ever so much harder than we were.

Two recounts held this week failed to change the final result of the representative contests, but Paul A. L'Antigua made a seven vote gain on William McCoubrie in the Republican contest and Arthur Oulette fell seven votes farther behind Cornelius Twomey in the Democratic contest.

Abbot Academy will open on Monday with a full school. The regualar date for opening was postponed because of the difficulties of transportation for the many students coming from points west of Albany and from New York City or other places which involve travel through the hurricane-swept region between New York and Boston.

Just A Thought

By Bob Finneran

In a convenience store last week a conversation was overheard in which two people were examining the front page of the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune and one commented that the newspaper had been too descriptive in its reporting of an assault on a young girl in Methuen.

The companion hesitantly agreed.

Now, frankly the Eagle-Tribune needs no defense.

But, my thoughts on the particular subject, and having been in the business for a while, were that the descriptive reporting of what had happened to the young girl was proper and maybe just what is needed to get the general public fired up enough to begin getting angry at such actions taking place.

It was later learned that this was not just a single instance, but that another girl had also been assaulted in similar fashion after school in the same community.

There was a time when newspapers refrained from being too graphic in describing such things.

But, it is the opinion here that the general public should have access to what is happening in our times, and it's not good.

In addition to the assaults on the two girls, the news in our area has been far from good lately.

A youngster murdered and left on railroad tracks in Lawrence a few weeks back.

Last week, two teenagers arguing over a girlfriend results in one pulling a gun and killing the other across the street from Lawrence High School.

In Lowell, three youths killing a homeless man who not only wouldn't harm anyone, but was a World War II hero. The trio wasn't satisfied with a singular attack on the defenseless man, but returned twice to plunge knives into his lifeless body to be sure he was dead, considering at one point setting fire to the man.

These senseless attacks and killings have to be stopped somehow and if it takes telling it like it is in the newspaper, then it should be done.

The time seems appropriate to get the public angered over such actions to the point of reporting things to police, such as strange behavior in people, evidence of possible trouble when observed.

The reports discussed here are becoming too frequent and serious to ignore.

And, one can't call such crimes as being done by animals.

Animals have more respect for each other than some people are showing to mankind in general.

Added Taxes

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

Question 4 on the November ballot calls for the permanent shutdown of Massachusetts' two nuclear power plants. In addition to considering what will shut down, Massachusetts voters must also consider what will start up.

If the Shutdown Initiative is passed, the owners of Pilgrim and Yankee Rowe may be entitled to compensation for the arbitrary taking of their property. This one billion dollars—a conservative estimate of the plants' worth—will be paid for by us, the taxpayers. We would pay this one billion either directly through increased taxes or through cuts in state programs and services, or both. The residents of Massachusetts do not need an additional tax burden, nor does the state itself, which is already facing a severe deficit.

Before entering the voting booth on November 8, study the issues. Make sure you know what Question 4 really means—eliminating 20 percent of the electricity generated in Massachusetts while increasing our tax burden, our electricity bills and our dependence on foreign oil.

Grateful

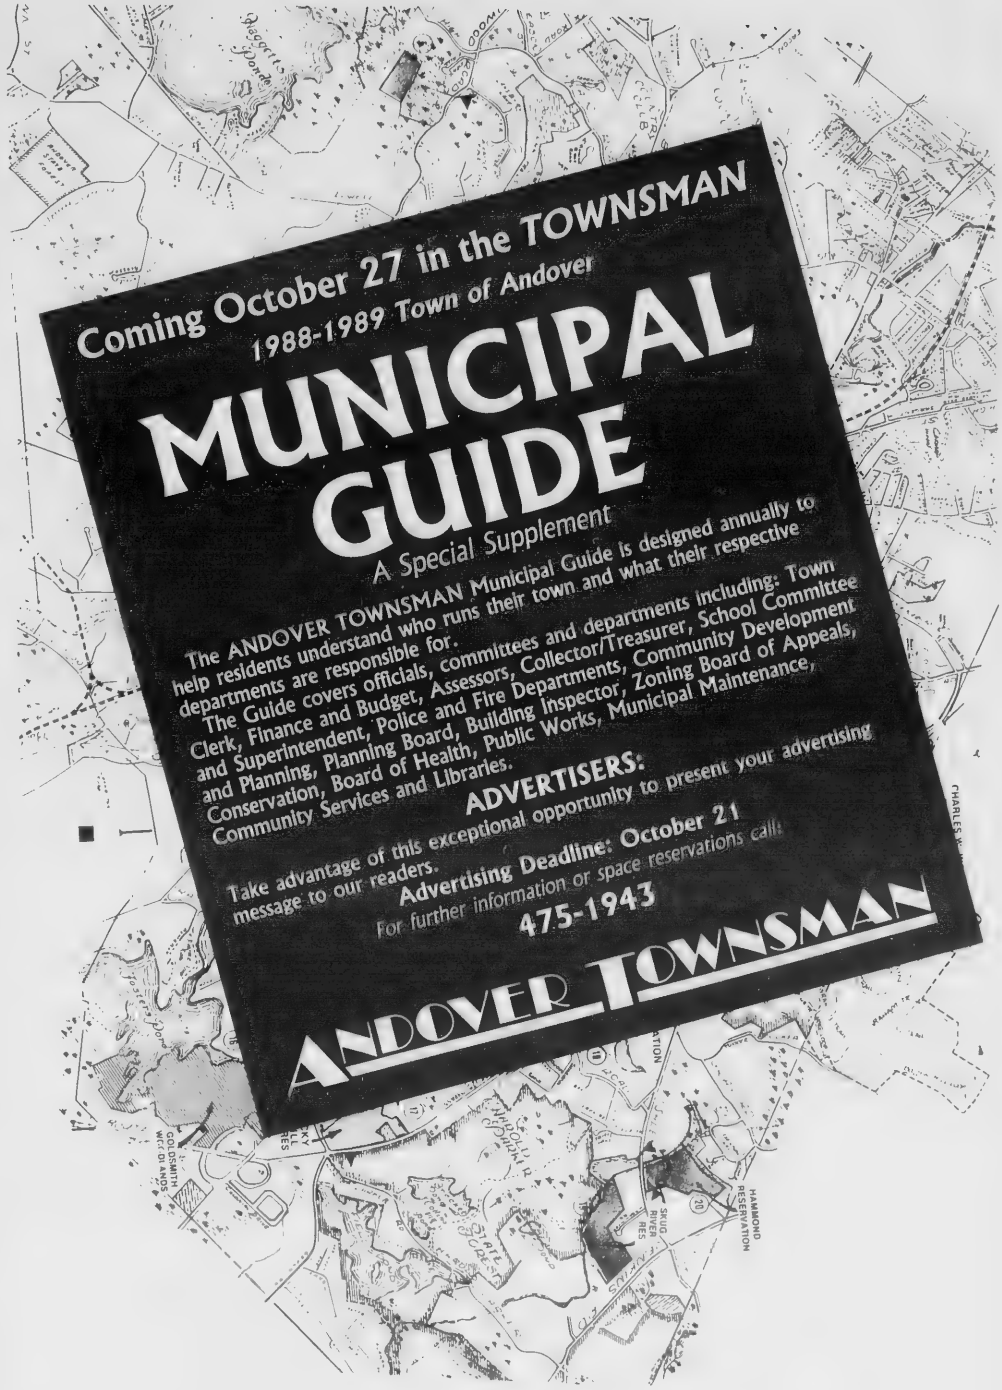

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

On Sunday evening, Sept. 11, I had the misfortune to suffer a back injury. As new residents of Andover, having moved here from Reading last July, my husband and I were forced to call upon the rescue services of our new town.

We would like to thank the Andover Fire department and, more specifically, E.M.T.'s Tom Agnew and Dennis Sullivan for their quick response to our call. They calmly did what was necessary and made what was a very frightening experience—my first ambulance ride—seem less fearful.

We are extremely grateful for their competence and compassion.

Russia

Getting to know the natives was an experience. "I learned that the Soviet people are not that different from us. They're people too, just as important as us, and they deserve a chance just as much as we do," O'Neill said.

O'Neill had quite a few positive experiences with the Russian people that brought her to that realization.

One took place in Baku when a group of 11 American students met a 14-year old Russian girl on a cruise. A conversation on the boat with the girl and her mother led to an invitation for tea at the Russian's home.

"The big thing there is to link arms — it means friendship," O'Neill explained. And, she recalled that the Russian girl took her arm on the walk home to signify their friendship.

Going into a Russian home was interesting. O'Neill said that five to six people lived in a small two room apartment. One was an entry way and one was used for both eating and sleeping. "I don't know if this is the norm or not," she said. "But, it was really odd."

The family had an abundance of freshly made pastries lined up on the table because it was the son's tenth birthday. They were really hospitable, serving pastries and tea, said O'Neill. "It was sort of like pandemonium, with 11 people and the family," she said. Everyone was taking pictures; they all sang happy birthday to the boy; and, with Russian music in the background, the students taught the family some American dances —like the bunny hop. "They loved it," O'Neill said.

The family also gave the Americans gifts, such as pins and necklaces. In return, the students gave them American magazines, post cards and chewing gum, a popular item amongst the youths, O'Neill said.

When asked why the family was giving them gifts, O'Neill said she wasn't sure. But, she said, "I think they wanted us to see what they had."

The American students were told in advance to buy magazines, post cards, etc. in order to trade with the Russians.

American clothing and especially western currency were in demand at the black markets in the Soviet Union.

O'Neill explained that the black marketeers could recognize Americans. "They kept coming up to me and they would say 'how much do you want for your shirt?'," she said laughing. Although the shirt off her back wasn't an item traded, O'Neill did exchange her jean jacket for a fur hat.

"The big thing is — they want American money," O'Neill said. Since the rubel isn't worth anything outside of the Soviet Union, western currency makes it possible for the marketeers to purchase western goods, O'Neill explained.

Although the people themselves are much like ourselves, O'Neill did experience some drastic cultural differences.

The cuisine was not one of the high points of her trip. "The food is grose," she said. They eat a lot of potatoes and they don't tell you what type of meat they're serving you, "mystery meat," she said. The Russians also eat raw fish.

Money Can Be Claimed

State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane said his office is attempting to return more than $2 million to 7,000 Massachusetts residents under the state's unclaimed money law.

Crane noted that this money has been reported to the treasury by insurance companies doing business in the state. Included in the proceeds are unpaid life insurance benefits, unpaid benefits on health and liability insurance policies, pension checks and customer overpayments.

Under the state's unclaimed money law, accounts which have been dormant for at least five years are called "abandoned" and must be reported to the treasury. The treasury department then tries to locate the rightful owner or legal heirs.

"Many of these accounts represent the cash value of life insurance policies, which the owners do not realize they are entitled to claim," Crane said.

More than 3,000 accounts range between $100 and $500; 650 accounts between $500 and $1,000; 424 accounts between $1,000 and $5,000; 14 accounts between $5,000 and $10,000 and eight accounts more than $10,000. The remaining accounts are less than $100.

Crane says his office is trying to contact the following Andover people and businesses: Travel Anywhere, John Atanasoff, George Baxter, George Caledonia, Collins Insurance Agency, Georganna Cowperwaite, Margaret Curran, Ellsworth Cushing Estate, James Davis, Linda Ezzo, Wanda Farr, Jacqueline Greeley, David Merullo, Elizabeth Millikin, John Murphy, Anna Snyder, Leonard Sweet and Rosalyn Sweet.

Warriors' Action

Andover's quarterback, Steve Surette, attemps to move the ball up field in a series of plays that Haverhill answered defensively each time during the last two periods.

Haverhill took final possession of the ball but was unable to break the 14 to 14 tie in what was a very frustrating fourth period for both teams.

Social studies teacher Skip Eiserman and English teacher Karen Burke get together at a pre-game cookout Friday.

SPECIAL YOUTH SOCCER NIGHTS

The Andover High School Soccer Boosters are sponsoring two special SOCCER nights to support our varsity girls and boys soccer teams.

The GIRLS NIGHT will be Saturday, October 8th. Game time is 7:00. Andover's opponent will be arch-rival, North Andover.

The BOYS NIGHT will be Tuesday, October 4th, 7:00 p.m. against Shrewsbury.

Each boy and girl through the eighth grade, who is wearing a soccer shirt, and is accompanied by an adult will be admitted free.

Since both Andover teams are pre-season favorites to win the Merrimac Valley Conference, both of these matches should provide plenty of action. Come out and support your teams.

Passing Combo Shines At Central

By Rick Harrison

Once again the most devastating passing combination in the Merrimack Valley Football Conference lives in Andover.

Unfortunately for the Golden Warriors, however, quarterback Chris Lane and wide receiver Glenn Farnham play for Central Catholic.

The pair have been instrumental in getting CCHS off to an impressive 2-0-0 start, the Red Raiders beating Wilmington 21-14 in their opener and shocking powerful Lowell High 17-6 last weekend.

The Lane-Farnham Connection hooked up three times for 74 yards against Wilmington, two of the passes setting up touchdowns. Lane, meanwhile, threw for over 100 yards and one touchdown.

Central had never beaten Lowell before on the football field, and in that contest the dynamic duo clicked three more times for 56 yards, including a 22-yarder for six points and another 22 yarder to set up the first TD.

Showing their versatility, both Lane and Farnham also intercepted one pass each at key times against Lowell. Farnham had a 37-yard average for four punts and also returned a kickoff 20 yards, while Lane ripped off 24 and 14-yard runs during two Central marches.

This is the second varsity season for the two 5-11, 170-pound clones, Lane a junior and Farnham a senior who helped Central cap the '87 campaign with an impressive 7-0 Thanksgiving morning victory over Andover High.

Both are also following in some illustrious footsteps.

Farnham's three older brothers, Bob, Mark and Paul, were all star pass-catchers at Andover High and Brown University. Lane's older brother Bill also quarterbacked at Central and is now a senior at Springfield College, while brother Mike played fullback and linebacker for CCHS last fall and is currently a freshman at Florida Southern.

"Lane throws the ball long as well as any quarterback in the conference," said Lowell head coach Walter Nelson before Central burned his team. "And Farnham is a definite deep threat.

"I don't know how they got him (Farnham) away from Andover, but he has excellent speed and moves well after he catches the ball."

Nelson's feelings hadn't changed much after the loss.

"That's a good football team. Kids like Lane and Farnham were right there last year when they beat Andover. They made the big plays.

"It was third-down-and-a-million (22 yards) on their touchdown pass tonight. We all knew they'd throw the ball to No. 46 (Farnham), but they completed it for a touchdown anyway," added Nelson.

Farnham froze the Lowell defensive back with a quick cut to the outside, and Lane lofted the ball perfectly over the cornerback's head to Farnham in the right front corner of the endzone.

"Chris is showing tremendous poise and leadership," said CCHS head coach Mike Cassano. "There's a big difference from his sophomore year. Now he takes control in the huddle, makes significant comments and contributions on the sidelines, and is definitely a much more mature football player."

"The biggest difference is I can read the defenses a lot better this year," said Lane. "Last season I felt lost a couple of times.

"We don't consider this (win over Lowell) an upset," continued Chris. "We've been the best-kept secret in the MVC — at least until now.

"Glenn punted the ball great, his catches were awesome, and our line gave me some very good protection.

"I never thought we'd be able to run the ball as well as we did against Lowell. I thought I'd have to pass more (Lane was 5-for-8, 70 yards, no interceptions).

"We were really hyped up for the game, especially since we'd never beaten them before," said the rifle-armed quarterback. "But I never felt it was over until the very end. The fieldgoal (23 yarder by Sean Reardon) in the third quarter helped alot. It meant Lowell had to score twice to beat us."

Lane's interception came on the final play of the first half, at the CCHS 14 yard line, while Farnham picked off another long bomb early in the fourth quarter near midfield and returned it 19 yards.

"Glenn has become our 'money' player," said Cassano. "He's the one who makes the big play when we need it. He has a great personality. He's fun to have around off the field and he's all business on it."

Farnham is also a standout on the varsity hockey team, while both he and Lane have been summer baseball standouts in Andover and will play for the Red Raiders' varsity squad next spring.

Other Andover players on the Central football squad include 220-pound senior lineman and tri-captain Andy Peck, and sophomore 6-2, 240-pound two-way tackle Sean Finneran.

Both had sacks against Lowell, while Finneran added a fumble recovery to set up the first TD and a blocked extra point that was pivotal at the time.

Central has another stiff test this Saturday afternoon when it hosts undefeated defending Eastern Mass. Division 2 Super Bowl champion Chelmsford (14 straight wins) at Veterans Stadium in Lawrence (1:30 p.m.).

"If you want respect and credibility in this league you have to earn it by going through the Lowells and Chelmsfords," said Cassano. "There are no vacation weeks."

Central, which beat intra-city archrival Lawrence High late last season and is riding a four-game carryover win streak itself, will also be in town Thanksgiving morning for the traditional battle with Andover.

The seminars will be offered in Worcester and Boston beginning in mid-October and continuing throughout the year.

Soccer Teams Undefeated

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls' and boys' soccer teams remained undefeated, while the volleyball and field hockey squads also continued to play well, highlighting last week's fall varsity athletic action.

The defending state co-champion girls' soccer crew remained unbeaten and unscored-upon in Merrimack Valley Conference play, edging Billerica 1-0 and blasting second-year team Dracut 11-0 to improve to 4-0-0 overall in the league.

This past Monday AHS did surrender its first goal of the season, but also improved to 5-0-0 overall with a hard-fought 2-1 triumph over Concord-Carlisle in a rematch of last November's Eastern Mass. Division 1 North title game.

The defending league champion Andover boys, 4-0-1 and tied for the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division lead, whipped Lowell, 4-0, trimmed Central Catholic, 3-1, and whitewashed Billerica 2-0.

The volleyball team improved to 4-1, more victories than it had all of last year, by winning a pair of 2-1 decisions over Tewksbury and Wilmington. The Warriors also lost for the first time, by the same score to Methuen.

The field hockey team (2-2-1) dropped a 3-1 game to undefeated perennial powerhouse Wilmington, and then battled Tewksbury to a 1-1 standoff.

The boys' and girls' cross country squads were beaten by Lowell in their MVC dual meet openers, the girls (1-1-0 overall) bowing 15-50.

Girls' Soccer

Billerica gave Andover all it could handle, thanks primarily to sophomore goaltender Rachael Barbarossa, before the Golden Warriors pulled out a 1-0 decision over their MVC archrival.

"We knew Billerica would be our toughest league opponent," said AHS coach Dick Loschi. "But our girls came out ready to play, and I didn't anticipate that we'd dominate like we did. It was kind of scary that we played so well but couldn't put the ball in the net."

The reason for that was Barbarossa, who was all over the net area and was credited with 43 saves as Andover held a spectacular 44-2 shooting advantage.

"There are going to be times when we'll be dying to put the ball in the net," said Loschi. "I was a little concerned that we had so much trouble finishing off the plays, but their goaltender did play a great game."

The lone goal of the contest was finally deposited at 27 minutes of the second half by senior striker and Co-Capt. Kerry Fitzpatrick.

"Lynch brought the ball down left wing and passed to Allen in the corner," said Loschi. "Lisa stepped around their defense, moved toward the net, and passed to Fitzpatrick out front. Kerry's shot from about 15 yards out went just inside the far post."

Junior Nicole Ricci made the two necessary saves en route to her third straight shutout.

Defensive standouts for the Warriors were junior sweeper Andrea Duffy, junior wing-fullback Brenna Cronin, junior Michelle DeStefano and junior halfback Michelle Vetrano.

The subsequent 11-0 romp over Dracut was just a case of the Middies being overmatched and overwhelmed.

Andover exploded for 10 goals in the first half and then eased up.

Junior halfback Jodi Saunders, Michelle DeStefano and Brenna Cronin pocketed two goals apiece, while singletons were added by Lisa Allen, Kerry Fitzpatrick, sophomore striker Anne Murnane, sophomore striker Jen Butt and Erin Lynch.

Nicole Ricci and Maura Everette combined for the Warriors' fourth straight shutout.

Defensive standouts were senior halfbacks Beth Cronin and Megan Simpson.

The victory over Concord-Carlisle was sweet, Kerry Fitzpatrick giving Andover a 1-0 halftime lead with her fourth goal. Kathy Doran assisted.

The Patriots' Jen Guyer tied it 1-1 early in the second half, but with six minutes to play Sue Gianelly booted home the clincher with assists to Fitzpatrick and Erin Lynch.

Lynch started the winning play with a crossing pass to Fitzpatrick, who in turn fed Gianelly at the left post for a short volley into the cage.

Nicole Ricci, whose shutout string was halted at 4½ games, made six saves while C-C's Kristen Evans had 18 stops.

Brenna Cronin and Andrea Duffy played well defensively.

Boys' Soccer

Senior wing Scott Clementi netted two goals, his third and fourth of the young season, to pace Andover past Lowell 4-0 under the lights at Lovely Field.

Goals by Capt. Peter Kannam and Clementi made it 2-0 by halftime, and the second-half insurance came from senior forward Bob Hughes and Clementi.

Matt Pothier passed out a pair of assists for AHS while senior midfielder Eric Jones, senior fullback Dave Manning, junior fullback Chuck Jessico and junior forward Chris Merrill added one apiece.

Senior Eric Hammond and junior Mike Sintros combined for the club's second shutout, the Andover defense combining to allow Lowell just one shot on net.

"We really hustled and played creative, constructive soccer," said coach Dave Amundsen. "That's what we've been looking for.

"Lowell stayed with us most of the way, but we took advantage of our opportunities and didn't give them many chances. The 4-0 score was a good indication of the game."

Pete Kannam's fourth and fifth goals of the season sparked the 3-1 triumph over Central Catholic under the lights at Lovely Field.

The Golden Warriors grabbed a 2-0 halftime lead and then traded goals with CCHS in the second half.

The Billerica game brought together the two teams that battled to the wire last fall for the MVC Large School Division title, Andover finally prevailing by one point following a 3-1 victory on the last day of the regular season.

This 2-0 AHS triumph was achieved on an unassisted first-half goal by Eric Jones, and an insurance tally by Peter Kannam (his sixth) with just two minutes left to play.

Mark Angelos assisted on Kannam's goal, and senior Eric Hammond made six saves en route to the team's fourth shutout.

The loss left BMHS at 3-2-0 overall.

Andover was scheduled for a major showdown against unbeaten Small School leader Dracut (4-0-0) last Tuesday.

Field Hockey

Senior forward Amy Mencis pocketed her third goal in four games, and collected her seventh point overall, but it wasn't quite enough as Andover dropped a 3-1 decision to unbeaten MVC co-leader Wilmington.

Tewksbury (1-2-3 record) also presented Andover with a stiff test before settling for the 1-1 tie.

Volleyball

The volleyball team equalled its victory total of the entire 1987 season (three) when it nipped Tewksbury, 2-1.

Sparking the win were senior Julie Salazar with five kills, juniors Cate Doherty and Laura Hebeisen with their serving, and junior Grace Park with her setting prowess.

Earlier in the week AHS had suffered its first loss, 2-1 against Methuen, as the locals squandered a 1-0 lead.

Cross Country

The balanced Lowell High girls' cross country team swept the top eight places on its 2.5 mile home Shedd Park course en route to a 15-50 triumph over Andover.

Senior Capt. Diane Hinchey was first across the finish line for AHS, placing ninth overall in 18:43, and following close behind in 10th and 11th were junior Michelle Toth (18:45) and junior Katie Boness (18:46).

Diane Hevehan rounded out the top Andover finishers in 15th place (19:37).

Gridders Battle To Tie

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High football team bounced back from its lopsided loss to Chelmsford by battling Haverhill to a 14-14 standoff in its home opener before an estimated 1,200 fans last Friday night at Lovely Field.

Quarterback Steve Surette threw for 122 yards and one touchdown to spark the Golden Warriors' effort, while middle guard Stefan Kelly and middle linebacker Paul DeMarco led a defense that was tough when it hard to be.

Both teams left the field with 0-1-1 overall records, Haverhill having dropped a tough 21-20 decision to Lowell last week when a last-minute two-point conversion attempt was broken up.

All the scoring last Friday came in the first half, Andover notching the first and final touchdowns of the game.

Haverhill came within a few feet of pulling it out in the closing seconds, but a 41-yard fieldgoal attempt by 250-pound placekicker Steve Dimakis had the line but fell several yards shy of the crossbar.

Andover grabbed a quick lead on its first possession, marching straight down the field and scoring when 215-pound fullback DeMarco slanted off tackle and plowed the final six yards for the score.

A 44-yard pass from Surette to junior receiver John Thompson set up the TD, the first completion of a fine 12-for-15, 122-yard afternoon for the Andover senior quarterback.

Andy Weiner booted the first of his two conversions to make it 7-0 before many of the fans had time to settle in their seats.

Haverhill responded immediately, following the subsequent kickoff, and tied it when QB Brendan Skafas found diminutive Rob Gomes with a 40-yard scoring toss.

Also turning in fine efforts for Coach Sean D'Urso's team were Richard D'Angelis, Adam Goddess and Derrick D'Angelis on offense, and Andy Shulman, Mark Massano, Spencer Wendt and Mark Tropeano on defense.

Colts' standouts were Andy Novelline, Brendon O'Donahue, Sean O'Leary, Gene Doran, Toby Guzowski and Colin Arsenault, who had a 60-yard touchdown run nullified by a clipping penalty, on offense and Matt Avery, Steve Hosmer, Scott Savage and Mark Formichella on defense.

The Dolphin touchdowns were scored by Kirk Stockwood on a 11-yard run and Scott Henry on a seven-yard run. Paul Allard accounted for the point after touchdown. Playing well for the Dolphins were Dave Kelmer, Brendan Finneran, John Shea and Mark LaStrina on offense and Todd Harris, Chris Corcoran, Matt Yoder and Justin Connors on defense.

Rob Wyatt scored the Raider touchdown on a burst up the middle. James Perry scored the extra point. Key offensive performers were Rodney Lumley, Robert Derba, Mike Shaugnessy and Chris O'Connell. Recognition for their tough defensive play goes to Jason Benedict, Richie Meyers, David Godwin, Matt Weightman and Bobby Ellis.

PeeWee A's Open With 15-2 Win

The Andover PeeWee A hockey team successfully opened its season Saturday at Tully Arena in Lowell by dominating a Wakefield team 15-2. Andover scored early and often as they built up an insurmountable 3-0 first-period lead.

Brendan Sheehy and Scott Munroe led Andover with three goals each while Richie Enos, Danny Hansberry and Ryan Moynihan scored two goals each. Paul Allard, Brian Flanagan and David Wartman added single goals. Other players contributing to the win were David Bailey, Bobby Daley, Tim McGovern and Danny Trede.

The defense was outstanding and were able to successfully shut down Wakefield's offense for long periods. Phil Smith and Fred Sunderland shared goaltending duties and both came up with key saves at critical times.

The Andover team played an exciting game against Tewksbury at the Ristuccia Arena in Wilmington on Sunday. Andover jumped ahead 1-0 halfway through the first period when center Adam Gurry pushed the puck past both Tewksbury defensemen and was then able to lift it over the sprawling goalie. However, during the early going of the second period, Andover not only lost its lead but fell behind as Tewksbury scored two quick goals. Then Andover defenseman Daley scored the tying goal on a good individual effort as he skated from center ice, around a Tewksbury defenseman, cut back across the ice and flipped a backhander into the open upper corner of the net.

Neither team was able to score in the third period due to some outstanding goaltending and defensive play. When the final buzzer had sounded, Andover had earned a 2-2 tie and an undefeated opening weekend.

from high blood pressure, arthritis, asthma and other health problems because it provides a gentle workout while reducing stress and increasing awareness of internal energy. Tai Chi practitioners learn to use the internal energy to improve their health.

The self-defense class emphasizes conditioning and Chin-Na grasping techniques distilled from other styles. Kiesel said this one-year course is ideal for people who want short-term training in self-defense techniques rather than traditional martial arts.

The Kung Fu and self-defense classes are taught by Kiesel. Kiesel, who has 10 years of experience in the martial arts, met Dr. Yang Jwing-Ming six and a half years ago. Kiesel has studied Kung Fu and Tai Chi with Yang since then.

Yang studied with masters Cheng Gin-Gsao and Kao Tao in Taiwan before coming to the United States in 1974 to study for his doctoral degree at Purdue University. He has published 10 books and five videos on martial arts. Yang has operated a school in Boston since 1982. The YMAA headquarters are located in Jamaica Plain. Yang comes to the Andover school two days a week to teach Tai Chi.

In addition to the martial arts courses, a yoga class is also taught at the school.

Audi Leasing With No Down Payment.
The Audi 90 sports sedan comes with an exhaustive list of standard features. ABS braking. Sunroof. Leather seats. Six-speaker stereo. Zebrano wood mouldings. And a brace of other standard amenities.

Now, the Audi 90 also goes for an impressively low lease rate of just $352.

This small monthly payment does more than secure "one of the world's best looking small sedans," (Car & Driver), though. It also secures the driver protection of the Audi Advantage, three years or 50,000 miles of scheduled maintenance at no additional cost, with no deductibles.

Restrictions apply, of course, so see us soon for complete program and leasing details on both the Audi 90 and the Audi 80.

And see how Audi leasing provides cars without equal, protection without precedent.

Audi Today: Defining Performance In More Attractive Terms.

For Just $352,* You Can Lease A Sports Sedan So Agile, It Even Avoids The Cost Of Scheduled Maintenance.

*Payment based on Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price for Audi 90, including destination charge and California emissions where applicable. 60-month closed-end lease offered by VW Credit, Inc. through participating Audi dealers. Taxes, license, dealer prep and options extra. No down payment, just first month's $352 plus $375 security deposit required in advance. Total of monthly lease payments $21,120. Ten cents per mile over 75,000. No purchase option. Your participating dealer contributes to this offer, which may affect your final negotiated transaction. © 1988 Audi

"And, it's not sushi," O'Neill said laughing.

Cavier, icecream and pepsi were really popular items. Pepsi and water machines were, however, different than those in the United States.

O'Neill said a glass cup was used at the machines. And the same glass was used time after time without being washed. "I never did it but I watched," she said. "It's pretty unsanitary," O'Neill added.

Waiting in line is much more customary in the Soviet Union than in the U.S. Not only that, but "the quality of goods is bad and there's not a lot to choose from," O'Neill said. "Things we take for granted are expensive and hard to get," she added.

This gave O'Neill a new appreciation. "When I came back, I walked down the Andover streets and I thought, 'we are so fortunate to live here'...we can go into a store and get whatever we need," she said.

O'Neill learned something about herself from her trip to the Soviet Union. "I'm gung ho on capitalism; I don't know what I'd do without it," she said.

Gorbachev is trying to make things better for the Russians and O'Neill says she thinks there's a chance for changes in the Soviet Union that will make life more satisfying for its people.

No society is perfect, she said. And, "I think it's important to travel and learn about people in other cultures."

Weiner tied it with a perfect placement, and that ended the scoring for the night.

Ball Control

Haverhill had the edge in the scoreless second half, primarily because its ball-control offense permitted Andover to click off only 14 plays over the final 20 minutes.

Early in the fourth stanza the Hillies drove from deep in their own territory to the Andover 24, eating up most of the period, but finally surrendered the ball on downs.

Andover was fortunate on one play, Skafas overthrowing Favalora after an Andover defensive back slipped and fell. Had the pass been on target it would likely have produced the go-ahead touchdown.

Dimakis' scary attempt at the winning fieldgoal was set up by a Haverhill fumble recovery at the Andover 30 in the closing minute.

The Golden Warriors' defense stiffened, however, forcing the fieldgoal try that had everyone in the stands holding their breath for several seconds.

The Hillies finished with statistical edges in first downs (11-10) and yards rushing (147-96), while Andover had the advantage in yards passing (122-61) and total yardage (218-208).

Week Off

Andover has a welcome weekend off and will return to play Saturday, Oct. 8 against Billerica at the Indians' Marshall Middle School field.

Game time is 1:30 p.m.

The next home game (there are just four this year) will be Friday night, Oct. 21 when Wilmington invades Lovely Field for a 7 p.m. contest.

JUST CURIOUS

If your intention is to sell your home without the services of our agency be prepared for the inevitable "curiousity seekers". You'll probably spend more time strolling through the house with people who are just interested to see what the inside looks like than showing it to firm prospects.

Your "For Sale by Owner" sign leaves you open to all types of people and problems. For example, a visitor may present an offer to buy on which he doesn't intend to follow through. You may make plans based on accepting it, only to learn that the "prospect" had no intention of completing the agreement.

Our staff has the experience to unmask the insincere offer and turn it away before it does any harm. In fact, the presence of one of our agents usually will discharge any attempts of that sort. We will qualify prospects in advance and allow only those who are definitely prospective buyers –not curiousity seekers – to inspect your home.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES
By Ann Campbell, G.R.I.
Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

WHAT MAKES AN OFFER ATTRACTIVE?

"Clean" is a word often used to describe a good offer. It doesn't describe the price, but rather the terms of agreement. Also, if you really want a particular house, the cleaner you can make your offer, the better.

What are the characteristics of a clean contract? It's clean if the prospective buyers are either paying all cash or are clearly qualified for a mortgage. It has no request that the sellers hold any of the financing or pay any of the closing costs. It has a settlement date that coincides with the sellers' needs and isn't contingent of the sale of another home. There are no unusual requests for repairs and no insistence that articles convey that would ordinarily move out of the house with the sellers. Making a clean offer helps in two important ways. First, if you're offering less than full price, it's good to make the rest of the offer as attractive as possible. Second, if you are in a situation where there is one or more other offer on the property, clean contracts have an important competitive edge.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or sellin a home, talk to the professionals at Realty USA Schruender Real Estate. Come by our offices at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover or call us at 685-5500.

Jury Says Town Not At Fault In 1985 Case

A federal jury in Boston absolved the town in a $5 million civil rights lawsuit filed by a Lawrence man.

On Sept. 9, the jury found the town not liable for damages claimed by Laurence Musumeci, who said he was slapped by an Andover policeman and not allowed to receive a blood alcohol test rather than a breathalyzer analysis after being arrested July 5, 1985 on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Musumeci was later convicted by a Haverhill jury on the drunk-driving charge when his blood alcohol level tested over the legal limit at .12.

Musumeci claimed that, after bail was paid, he refused to leave the cell and continued protesting his right to arrange a blood test. Exasperated, Andover policeman Arthur Ricci slapped him and ordered the Lawrence man to leave, said Musumeci.

Town Counsel Alfred Daniels denied Musumeci's version of the incident. After deliberating about 90 minutes, the jury agreed.

The only witness in the jail cell was the policeman, said Musumeci, who represented himself at the trial.

"I feel the credibility of the officer was the crucial element" to winning the case, said Daniels.

Musumeci had left the Andover Jade restaurant with a friend at about 9 p.m. After his vehicle turned on Main Street towards Lawrence, an Andover patrol unit spotted Musumeci's car veer sharply at another car, said Daniels.

After failing a sobriety test, which Musumeci said was affected by a congenital back condition, he was arrested and booked at the Andover police station.

Musumeci was cleared of reckless driving charges at the Haverhill trial. Although "obviously I'm not happy about the verdict," Musumeci said he has no plans to appeal.
